Hakone

The volcanically active Fuji-Hakone-Izu National Park, centered around Lake Ashinoko, is a popular tourist attraction well known for its Onsen (hot springs) and its views of Mount Fuji.

Kanazawa

Kanazawa is a leading tourist city. It was a great castle town ruled by an influential leader from the 17th century. Kanazawa has not suffered from any war devastation or big natural disaster. Therefore, Kanazawa maintains rows of historical houses and inherits traditional handicrafts and performing arts.

Kijimadaira

Kijimadaira Village, located in central Japan, is preserving farmland and forest. Their rice won gold prize at the 2009 International Competition of rice taste evaluation, and their spring water was selected one of "Japan's 100 best water" in 1985. Kijimadaira Junior High School has sister school relationship with the Lycée Classique de Diekirch.

Okayama

Okayama City, the capital of Okayama Prefecture, a major gateway to Inland Sea National Park and Shikoku, is famous for Korakuen Garden and beautiful historic Okayama Castle known as the "Crow castle" because of its colour. The city is famous also as the setting of the legend of Momotaru (Peach Boy).

Hiroshima

(UNESCO World Heritage)

Hiroshima is best known as the first city in history to be destroyed by an atomic bomb in 1945. Atomic Dome and Peace Memorial Park are places to visit.

Kawaguchiko

Lake Kawaguchiko is one of five lakes at the foot of Mount Fuji. The view of Mount Fuji together with the lake is magnificent.

Nikko

(UNESCO World Heritage)

The village of Nikko developed around Rinnoji Temple (established in 766) and the temple of Chuzen-ji (established in 784). The Toshogu Shrine was completed in 1617 and became a major draw of visitors to the area during the Edo period. Nikko became the home of the mausoleums of the Tokugawa Shoguns.

Myjajima

(UNESCO World Heritage)

Since ancient times, Miyajima, the island itself, has been worshipped as a god. This belief, has been protecting Itsukushima Shrine, other shrines and temples as well as the island's unique culture, and its nature. This sacred island shows different faces according to the tide which is similar effect to the natural phenomenon at Mont St. Michel in Normandie, France.

Naoshima

Naoshima is an island located in the Setonaikai Sea of Japan. It is renowned for its large number of contemporary art galleries, architecture and exhibits. Naoshima is the best known for the Benesse House complex. There has been extensive domestic attention to the recently (2006) completed radical Chichu Art Museum.

Takayama

The town itself could be called a sightseeing spot with the latticed bay windows and linked eaves of merchants' houses in Sanmachi Suji, the enduring historical temples and shrines of Higashiyama, and the reproduction of Hida's traditional mountain farming villages of sloped-roof houses at Hida Folk Village.

Koyasan

(UNESCO World Heritage)

Koyasan was settled in 819 by the monk Kukai (posthumously known as Kôbô Daishi). It is the headquarter of the Kôyasan sect of Shingon Buddhism. Situated on a small plain at the top of Mount Kôya you find the sacred area known as Danjô Garan, a complex of temples, halls, pagodas and Buddhist statuaries that welcome visitors to this serene and hallowed place. Surrounded by a thick forest of massive cedars, the area known as Okuno-in, or the Inner Sanctuary, is the setting for a vast cemetery that features the mausoleum of numerous famous Japanese, including that of the samurai ruler Toyotomi Hideyoshi as well as memorials to the spirits of soldiers killed in the Pacific War.

Kurashiki

The old merchant quarter is called the Bikan historical area. It contains many fine examples of 17th century wooden warehouses painted white with traditional black tiles, along a canal framed with weeping willows and filled with Koi. The area has no electric poles in order to keep the atmosphere and the view of the city from the Meiji period.

Matsumoto

Matsumoto is located at the foot of Japan Alps rising to the heights of 3,000 meters. The town has flourished as a castle town since 16th century. Matsumoto castle with the view of Japan Alps is a breathtaking scenery. There are many Onsen (hot springs) around Matsumoto.

Shirakawago

(UNESCO World Heritage)

Shirakawago is a historic village and is famous for its farmhouses, which are built in a unique architectural style known as Gassho that keep the snow off in the winter. Underneath the roofs, the large attic area was used to house silkworms.

Kyoto

(UNESCO World Heritage)

Kyoto is one of the most famous city in Japan representing Japanese culture and history. Kyoto became the seat of Japan's imperial court in 794, and remained Japan's capital until the transfer of the government to Edo in 1868. Kyoto is the only large Japanese city that still has an abundance of prewar buildings, such as the traditional townhouses known as Machiya.

Nara

Nara was the first permanent capital of Japan from 710 to 784. Because the Buddhist monasteries had a powerful influence, it remains full of historic treasures, including some of Japan's oldest and largest temples. Eight temples, shrines and ruins, with Kasugayama Primeval Forest, collectively form "Historical Monuments of Ancient Nara".
